Explaining Your Connection To Creation And Your Reality

Your reality is a construct that begins with your consciousness. Your consciousness is your individuality within creation that stems from one consciousness, God.
You are all one within creation and that you're never really alone. But then there are times when it's positive to be on your own. And that's fine too. But you can never really be disconnected.
If you could actually be disconnected and cut off, You wouldn't exist. You can have an experience of disconnection and experience of being alone in the negative sense, but you're creating that from your connection. That's the paradox.
You can only experience being disconnected by using your connection to everything to create that experience. Do you understand the paradox?
You cannot be disconnected. It's not possible to be disconnected from creation. You are a part of creation. You can create the experience that you're disconnected, but you're using your connection to create that experience.
So you realize you couldn't possibly create an experience of disconnection, unless you were connected, you will erase the experience of disconnection.
You are a spiritual being having human reality experiences, not a human being having spiritual experiences.
